"The Mind of Man" is the theme of the Rev. Hinson V. Howlett's fourth sermon on "A Man and His Religion," which he will preach at the Second Baptist Church tomorrow morning. The topic for the evening service will be "Awaiting an Answer." Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dawson, of Bethany Baptist Church, made instructive and interesting talks before the Teachers' Club last Thursday evening on the Bible school lessons for Sunday. J. Walter Edlin, chairman of the devotional committee, and the midweek service, and although the weather was inclement, the attendance was large and many took part in the service.

The Sunday evening audiences at the Immanuel Baptist Church continue to fill nearly every seat on main and gallery. Every one enjoys the rousing praise service led by Mr. Percy S. Foster. On Sunday night the pastor, Rev. H. S. Pinkham, preaches on "The Lord Knoweth." A number of strong men will unite with the church by baptism.

The pastor of the First Baptist Church, Statesboro, Ga., announces a short series of Sunday evening talks on "The Fundamental Baptist Principle" and its relation to World Progress. These services will be opened with a ten-minute song service, led by the young people of the Christian Endeavor Society, and are designed to be brief, bright, and brotherly.

Twelve persons were baptized last Thursday night by E. H. Swann, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, in the commodious baptistry of the Temple Baptist Church. Mr. Swann speaks on "Angels are coming to Washington," Sunday night, and "High Things" in the morning.

Congregational

The following musical numbers will be rendered on Sunday at the First Congregational Church, Washington, D. C.: Organ Prelude in D, by Holman; Anthem, "Jubilate in F," by Garrett; "When Angels Come," by the choir; offertory, "The Friend That Waileth Night," by Macy; Organ postlude, "March in F," by Holman. At the evening service: Organ prelude, "Adagio," by Haydn; anthems, "Great and Marvelous," by Farmer; "I'm a Pilgrim," by Marston; "With Me," by Wagner; organ postlude, march in F, by Whitney.

On Sunday morning Dr. S. H. Woodrow, who has just returned from Gary, Ind., where he has just completed a conference of secretaries, superintendents and directors of the Congregational Home Missions Society, and is designated as the First Congregational Church on "Steel Mills and Steel Men."

The conference is a business meeting and a home mission conference representative from forty-two States.

The meeting was held in Gary that the industrial conditions of this city might be studied.

The First Congregational Church held its annual meeting last week, and all reports showed a record of success. Seventy were added to the church in 1912, and twenty more January 1, making the present total 1,416, the largest in the history of the church. There was contributed for denominational benevolence $4,724, and for other benevolence $1,722. For the year 1912 new deacons to fill the place of those whose terms had expired were elected as follows: J. H. Smith, Dr. Paul B. Johnson, Clerk; William L. Whitting, treasurer; Dr. W. W. Whiteford, superintendent of Sunday school; Edwin D. Burchard.

A committee was appointed to prepare plans for the fiftieth anniversary of the church in November, 1913.

Disciples

The revival of "The Old-time Religion" at the Ninth Street Christian Church, Ninth and D streets northeast, has attracted much attention and large crowds have been attending the church during the past week. The pastor, Rev. George W. Miller, is preaching and Frank Carpenter is director of the large chorus. The singing is a feature of the service, and will be continued each evening next week, except Sunday. The subject of the sermon on Sunday morning will be "The Incarnation of the Old-time Religion," and at night "The Prodigious of the Old-time Religion."

The subject for the week are as follows: Monday night, "The Faith of the Old-time Religion"; Tuesday night, "The Repentance of the Old-time Religion"; Wednesday night, "The Confession of the Old-time Religion"; Thursday night, "The Baptism of the Old-time Religion"; Friday night, "The Crisis of the Old-time Religion."

Congressman D. T. Morgan, of Oklahoma, will preach tomorrow at the H Street Christian Church, H street near F, Four-and-a-half street southwest at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

Thursday night closed two weeks of the most successful revival meetings ever held in Fifteenth Street Christian Church.

The preaching was by the Rev. John T. Hundley, of Virginia, a man of deep consecration and of great spiritual ability and power. The sermons were to the point, sane and scriptural. They resulted in a large number of conversions and in bringing some twenty-five persons to confess Christ and enlist in His service.

There will be special services Sunday morning and evening at which the pastor will preach.

The hand of fellowship will be given the new members in the morning, and there will be baptism at night.

"The Old-time Religion" will be the general theme of a series of evangelistic services to be conducted at the Ninth Street Christian Church, Ninth and D streets northeast, beginning on Sunday and continuing through several weeks. The regular minister, Rev. George W. Miller, will do the preaching, and Frank A. Carpenter, of the Postoffice Department, will conduct the music, supported by a large chorus of about 100 voices. The promise to be very popular, as already a large number have become interested in the general theme. This church is the oldest in the world today, probably more than ever before. The theme for Sunday morning at 10 o'clock will be "A Revival of the Old-time Religion," and an invitation has been sent out for all the members of the church to be present. The evening theme will be "The Old-time Religion," and the subject for the evening will be "The Promise of the Old-time Religion." Wednesday night, "The Promise of the Old-time Religion." Thursday night, "The Promise of the Old-time Religion." Friday night, "The Promise of the Old-time Religion."

Presbyterian

The New York Avenue Church choir led by J. Porter Lawrence, organist, will give its usual musical study of church classics tomorrow evening. The selection is Gounod's bright and popular "Mass of St. Cecilia," presenting the following numbers: "Kyrie," "Gloria," "Credo," "Sanctus," "Benedictus," and "Agnus Dei."

Chil Updon, Fraternity, a wide awake young men's organization in the Sixth Presbyterian Church, will have a novel entertainment in the lecture room of the church next Monday night. M. A. Leese will give a moving picture exhibit, using the Edison House Kinetoscope. There will be four reels shown during the evening. This follows a debate by the fraternity on "Resolved, That a moving picture plant should be installed in the church."

The Gurley Memorial Presbyterian congregation is worshipping at the present with the Guntion-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, Fourteenth and R streets northwest. The two congregations together fill the handsome auditorium of the Guntion-Temple Church to overflowing. Much inspiration is felt by all who attend the splendid services now being conducted.

The communion will be celebrated by the united congregations at the service Sunday morning. It is expected that it will be an overflow service. The elders and officers of both churches will be present. Dr. Granger, the pastor of the Guntion-Temple Church, will preside. New members will be received. At the evening service Dr. Granger will preach by the title, "Upon the topic, 'A Rose for the Living.'"

Rev. Henry E. Brundage, D. D., pastor of the Washington Presbyterian Church, returned to the city last week, much improved in health, after an absence of several weeks. He was accompanied by his wife and two children, and a number of friends and relatives in Pennsylvania. He was very much surprised and pleased to find that during his absence the congregation had installed an auxiliary hot water heating plant to heat his study.

The sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper were administered last morning, six children being baptized and thirty-three new members received, with an unusually large congregation. The Sunday school attendance last Sunday morning was the largest in the history of the church.

The Rev. John E. Williams, D. D., of Chicago, will speak at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

Dr. Williams has recently returned from a tour of the industrial regions of the United States, and will give an interesting message about the progress of the new Chinese republic. Dr. MacLeod will preach Sunday night on the theme, "Our Greatest National Peril."

Episcopal

The Rev. J. D. Dimon, rector of St. Andrew's Church, spoke at a meeting of the Men's Club of Epiphany Church recently on the "Change of Name." He declared himself to be an out and out supporter of the Protestant name, and the Protestant ideal. He stated that the term "Catholic" as a name had always stood for the authority of an institution, and that the word "Protestant" had, in spite of many reverses, represented the struggle of the men of religion toward the attainment of personal liberty. The speaker pointed out that, whereas the mere change of name might seem to be a trivial matter, the entire controversy lay between these two tendencies in the Protestant Episcopal Church; one party striving to carry forward the principles of a formal authority, resident in a visible institution; while the other was seeking to develop still further the principle of man's individual responsibility and the ideal of man's personal relationship to his God. The statement, therefore, that the advocate of the Catholic name was on the side of progress was extremely misleading. The progress for which they are struggling is reactionary, while the progress advocated by the Protestant Episcopal Church is an effort to strengthen that ideal of religious liberty, under which the finest civilization of the world has been nourished and developed.
